2016 Caudills in Verse

May B. by Caroline Starr Rose. May is on her homestead with her family until they hire her out to help a newly wed couple start their own wheat farm. The wife is not much older than May and is condescending and homesick. When the wife runs away, the husband goes after her, leaving May alone on the start-up farm with not enough to survive the big winter storm on the way.

Hidden by Helen Frost is another Caudill in verse.

Contact Rachel Reinwald, if you would like a 20-30 minute booktalk for your students on the rest of the Caudills or other nominees for 2016.
